

Chinese download service provider Xunlei loses piracy suit

WATCH VIDEO

Source: CCTV.com

02-04-2008 11:34

One of China's largest download service providers, Shenzhen-based Xunlei, has lost a piracy suit, and now has to pay more than 20,000 US dollars in compensation to Shanghai Youdu Broadband Technology.

One of China's largest download service providers, Shenzhen-based Xunlei, has lost a piracy suit, and now has to pay more than 20,000 US dollars in compensation to Shanghai Youdu Broadband Technology.

According to the Pudong District People's Court, Xunlei was accused of violating rights which are legally owned by the Shanghai company.

Editor: Xiong Qu

Related Video:

China steps up crackdown on Internet piracy